

Men's Health with Hormosan

Dear patient,

Hair loss are one of the problems that many affected men are reluctant to talk about. The good news, though, is this condition is treatable. You have received a product from the pharmacy made by Hormosan. Below you will find a brief overview of the correct intake of Finasteride-Hormosan 1mg, as well as information on the mode of action and duration of therapy.

Hair loss

The most common form of hair loss is hereditary hair loss, also called androgenetic alopecia. This can be observed more often in men.

The active ingredient Finasteride stabilises hair growth. Possible improvements can be noticed after approx. 3-6 months at the earliest due to the growth period of the hair. After that, it is important that you take the tablets regularly to maintain the condition you have achieved. This is why you shouldn't stop the therapy.

Finasteride-Hormosan 1 mg

- Intake: 1 tablet (1 mg) daily, regardless of a meal. Never take more than one tablet, as it has not been proven that a higher dosage leads to better efficacy.
- Onset of action: After approx. 3-6 months.
- Eligibility for reimbursement: Although the drug is available on prescription, it is not reimbursed by the statutory health insurance funds for hair loss, as it is a so-called lifestyle drug.
- Possible side effects#: Risk of psychological symptoms, such as anxiety, depressed mood, depression and sexual dysfunction.

During treatment, mood changes, depressed mood, depression and suicidal thoughts, sexual dysfunction including erectile dysfunction, ejaculatory dysfunction and decreased libido may occur. Sexual dysfunction may persist for more than 10 years after discontinuing the medication.

If psychological symptoms occur during treatment of androgenetic alopecia, stop using Finasteride and seek medical advice.

- Important note: Please make sure that pregnant women do not touch crushed or broken Finasteride tablets as there may be risks to a (male) foetus.

For detailed information, please refer to the package leaflet.

To find out more, please visit: <https://www.maennersache-hormosan.de/>